Lamentable Tragedie of

Locrine, the eldest sonne of King Brutus, discourfing the warres of the Britaines, and Hunnes, with their discomfiture:

The Britaines victorie with their Accidents, and the death of Albanact. No lesse pleasant then profitable.

Newly let foorth, ouerfeene and corrected,
By VV. S.

LONDON
Printed by Thomas Creede.

1 5 9 5.

The lamentable Tragedie

of Locrine, the eldest sonne of King Brutus, discoursing the warres of the Britaines and Hunnes, with their discomsiture, the Britaines victory with their accidents, and the death of Albanact.

The first Act. Scene I.

Enter Atey with thunder and lightning all in black, with a burning torch in one hand, and a bloodie swoord in the other hand, and presently let there come foorth a Lion running after a Beare or any other beast, then come foorth an Archer who must kill the Lion in a dumbe show, and then depart. Remaine Atey.

Atey.

In panam sectatur & Vmbra.

A Mightie Lion ruler of the woods,
Of wondrous strength and great proportion,
With hideous noyse scarring the trembling trees,
With yelling clamors shaking all the earth,

A 3

Trauerst

The lamentable Tragedie of Locrine Trauerst the groues, and chast the wandring beasts. Long did heraunge amid the shadietrees, And draue the filly beafts before his face, When suddeinly from out athornie bush, A dreadfull Archer with his bow ybent, Wounded the Lion with a dismall shaft. So he him stroke that it drew forth the blood, And fild his furious heart with fretting yre, But all in vaine he threatneth teeth and pawes, And sparkleth fire from forth his flaming eies, For the sharpe shaft gave him a mortall wound, So valiant Brute the terror of the world, Whose only lookes did scarre his enemies, The Archer death brought to his latest end. Oh what may long abide about this ground, In state of blisse and healthfull happinesse. Exit.

The first Act. Scene. 2.

Enter Brutus carried in a chaire, Locrine, Camber, Albanact, Corineius, Guendelin, Assaracus, Debon, Thrasimachus.

Brutus. Most loyall Lords and faithful followers
That have with me vnworthie Generall,
Passed the greedie gulfe of Ocean,
Leaving the confines of faire Italie,
Behold your Brutus draweth nigh his end,
And I must leave you though against my will,
My sinewes shrunke, my numbed sences faile,
A chilling cold possesser all my bones,
Blacke

the eldest fonne of King Brutus. Blackevely death with vilage pale and wanne, Presents himselfe before my dazeled eies, And with his dart prepared is to frike, Their armes my Lords, their neuer daunted armes, That oft have queld the courage of my foes, And eke dismayd my neighbours arrogancie, Now yeeld to death, orelaid with crooked age, Deuoyd of strength and of their proper force, Euen as the luftie cedar worne with yeares, I hat farre abroad her daintie odore throwes, Mongst all the daughters of proud Lebanon, This heart my Lords, this neare appalled heart, That was a terror to the bordring lands, A dolefull scourge vnto my neighbor Kings, Now by the weapons of vnpartiall death, Is clove afunder and bereft of life, As when the facred oake with thunderbolts. Sent from the fiery circuit of the heavens, Sliding along the aires celeftiall valts, Is rent and clouen to the verie rootes. In vaine therefore I strangle with this foe, Then welcome death, fince God will haue it fo. Affar. Alassemy Lord, we forrow at your case, And greeueto fee your person vexed thus, But what so ere the fates determind have. It lieth not in vs to disanull, And he that would annihillate his minde, Soaring with Icarus too nearethe Sunne, May catch a fall with yoong Bellerophon, For when the fatall fifters have decreed To seperate vs from this earthly mould,

The lamentable Tragedie of Locrine No mortall force can countermaund their minds: Then worthie Lord fincether's no way but one. Cease your laments, and leave your grievous mone. Corin. Your highnesse knows how many victories How many trophees I erected haue, Tryumphantly in every place we came The Grecian Monarke warlike Pandraffus, And all the crew of the Molossians, Coffarius the arme ftrong King of Caules, And all the borders of great Aquitane, Haue felt the force of our victorious armes, And to their cost beheld our chiualrie. Where ere Amora handmayd of the Sunne, Where erethe Sun-bright gardiant of the day, Where ere the joyfull day with chearfull light, Where erethe light illuminates the word, The Troyans glorie flies with golden wings, Wings that do foare beyond fell enuious flight, The fame of Brutus and his followers Pearceth the skies, and with the skies the throne Of mightie love Commaunder of the world, Then worthie Brutus, leave thefe fad laments, Comfort your selfe with this your great renowne, And feare not death though he seemeterrible. Brutus. Nay Corinus you mistake my mynd In construing wrong the cause of my complaints, I feard to yeeld my selfe to farall death, Cod knowes it was the least of all my thought, A greater care torments my veriebones, And makes me tremble at the thought of it, And in you Lordings doth the substance lie. Thrasi-

the eldest fonne of King Brutus. Thrafi. Most noble Lord, if ought your loyall Accomplish may, to ease your lingring grief, (peers I in the name of all proteft to you, That we will boldly enterprise the same, Were it to enterto black Tartarus, Where triple Cerberns with his venomous throte, Scarreth the ghoafts with high refounding noyle, Wele either rent the bowels of the earth, Searching the entrailes of the brutish earth, Or with his Ixions overdaring foone, Be bound in chaines of enerduring feele. Bru. The harken to your foueraigns latest words, In which I will vinto you all vinfold, Our royall mind and relolute intent, When golden Hebe daughter to great love, Couered my manly cheeks with youthful downe, Th'vnhappie flaughter of my luckleffe fire, Droue me and old Affarachus mine came, As exiles from the bounds of Italy, So that perforce we were constraind to flie To Gracians Monarke noble Pandraffus, There I alone did vndertake your canfe, There I reftord your antique libertie, Though Grecia fround, and all Mollofsia formd, Though brave Antigonus with martiall band, In pirched field encountred me and mine, Though Pandrassiand his contributories, With all the rout of their confederates, Sought to deface our glorious memorie, And wipethename of Troians from the earth, Him did I captiuate with this mine arme, And The lamentable Tragedie of Locrine And by compulion forcft him to agree To certain artickles which there we did propound, From Gracia through the boifterous Helle (pont, We came vnto the fields of Lestrigon, Whereas our brother Corineius Was, Which when we passed the Cicillian gulfe, And fo transfretting the Illician lea, Arrived on the coasts of Aquitane, Where with an armie of his barbarous Gaules Goffarius and his brother Gathelus Encountring with our hoaft, suffaind the foile, And for your fakes my Turnus there I loft, Turnus that flew fix hundreth men at armes All in an houre, with his sharpe battle-axe, From thence vpon the strons of Albion To Corus hauen happily we came, And queld the giants, comne of Albionstace, With Gogmagog sonne to Samotheus, The cursed Captaine of that damned crew, And in that lle at length I placed you. Now let me see if my laborious toiles, If all my care, if all my greeuous wounds, If all my diligence were well imploid. Corin. When first I followed thee & thine (brane I hazarded my life and dearest blood, (king) To purchace fauour at your princely hands, And for the same in daungerous attempts In fundry conflicts and in divers broiles, I thewd the courage of my manly mind, Forthis I combated with Gathelus, The brother to Goffarius of Gaule,

For

The eldest some to King Brutus.

For this I fought with furious Gogmagog,
Assuage captaine of a sauage crew,
And for these deeds braue Cormoale I received,
A gratefull gift given by a gratious King,
And for this gift, this life and dearest blood,
Will Corineus spend for Brutus good.

Deb. And what my frend braue prince hath youd

The same wil Debon do vnto his end. (to you, Bru. Then loyall peeres lince you are all agreed, And resolute to follow Brutus hoafts, Fauour my sonnes, fauour these orphans Lords, And shield them from the daungers of their foes, Locrine the columne of my familie, And onely piller of my weakned age. Locrine draw neare, draw neare vnto thy fire, And take thy latest blessings at his hands, And or thou art the eldeft of my fonnes, Bethou a captaine to thy bretheren, And imitate thy aged fathers fleps, Which will conduct thee to true honors gate, For if thou follow facred vertues lore, Thou shalt be crowned with a lawrell braunch, And weare a wreath of sempiternall fame, Sorted amongst the glorious happie ones.

Locrin. If Locrine do not follow your aduite,
And beare himselfe in all things like a prince
That seekes to amplifie the great renowne
Left vnto him for an inheritage
By those that were his ancestors,
Let me be flung into the Ocean,
And swallowed in the bowels of the earth.

B 2

Or

The lamentable Tragedie of Locrine, Or let the ruddie lightning of great lone, Descend vpon this my devolted head. Brutustaking Guendoline by the hand. But for I fee you all to-be in doubt. who shall be matched with ourroyall some, Locrine receive this present at my hand, A gift more rich then are the wealthie mines Found in the bowels of America, Thou shalt be spoused to faire Guendoline, Loue her, and take her, for the isthine owne, If fo thy vnckle and her felfe do pleafe. Corin. And herein how your highnes honors me It cannot be in my speech exprest, For carefull parents glorie not fo much At their honour and promotion, As for to feethe iffic of their blood Seated in honor and prosperitie. Guend. And far be it from my maydens thoughts To contradict heraged fathers will, Therefore fince herowhom I must obey Hath given menow vnto your royall felfe, I will not stand aloofe from off the hure, Like craftie dames that most of all deny That, which they most desire to possesse. Brutus turning to Locrine. Locrine kneeling.

Then now my sonnethy part is on the stage,
For thou must be are the person of a King.

Puts the Crowne on his head.

Locrine stand vp, and we are the regall Crowne,
And thinke vpon the state of Maiestie,

That

That thou with honor well mailt weare the crown,
And if thou tendreft these my latest words,
As thou requirst my soule to be at rest,
As thou delirest thine owne securitie,
Cherish and souethy new betrothed wife.

Locrin. No longer let me wel enjoy the crowne,

Then I dopeerlelle Guerdeline.

Cam. My Lord.

And darling of thy mother langer,

Take thou the South for thy dominion,

From the ethere shall profeed a royall race,

That shall maintaine the honor of this land,

That sway the regall scepter with their hands.

Turning to Albanact.

And Albanaët thy fathers onely joy,
Yoongst in yeares, but not the yoongst in mind,
A perfect patterne of all chiualrie,
Take thou the North for thy dominion,
A country full of hills and ragged rockes,
Replenished with searce vntamed beasts,
As correspondent to thy martiall thoughts,
Liue long my sonnes with endlesse happinesse,
And beare simme concordance amongst your setues,
Obey the counsels of these fathers grave,
That you may better beare out violence,
But suddeinly through weaknesse of my age,
And the defect of youthfull puissance,
My maladie increases h more and more,
And cruell death hastneth his quickned pace,

B 3

To

The lamentable Tragedie of Locrine
To dispossed me of my earthly shape,
Mine eies wax dimme, ouercast with clouds of age,
The pangs of death compasse my crazed bones.
Thus to you all my blessings I bequeath,
And with my blessings, this my fleeting soulc.
My glasse is runne, and all my miseries
Do end with life: death closeth vp mine eies,
My soule in haste sties to the Elisian fields.

He dieth.

Loc. Accursed starres, damd and accursed starres,
To abreviate my noble sathers life,
Hard-harted gods, and too envious sates,
Thus to cut off my fathers fatall thred,
Brutus that was a glorie to vs all,
Brutus that was a terror to his foes,
Alasse too soone by Demigorgons knife,
The martiall Brutus is bereft of life.
No sad complaints may move inst Lacus.

Corin. No dreadfull threats can feare judge Rho-Wert thou as krong as mightie Hercules, (domanth, That tamde the hugie monsters of the world, Plaids thou as sweet, on the sweet sounding lute, As did the spouse of faire Euridies, That did enchant the waters with his noise, And made stones, birds, and beasts, to lead a dance, Constraind the hillie trees to follow him, Thou coulds not moue the judge of Crebus, Nor moue compassion in grimme Plutos heart, For fatall Mors expecteth all the world, And euerie man must tread the way of death, Braue Tantalus the valiant Pelops sire,

Guest

the eldest fonne of King Brutus. Guest to the gods, suffred vntimely death, And old Fleithonus husband to the morne, And ekegrim Mines whom just Inpiter Deignd to admit vnto his facrifice, The thundring trumpets of blood-thirftie Mars. The fearfull rage of tell Tifiphone. The boiftrous waves of humid Ocean, Are instruments and tooles of dismall death. Then noble cousin cease to mourne his chaunce, Whose age & yeares were signes that he shuld die. It resteth now that we interre his bones, That was a terror to his enemies. Take vp the coarse, and princes hold him dead, Who while he liu'd, vpheld the Troyan state. Sound drums and trumpets, march to Troinouant, There to prouide our chieftaines funerall.

The first Act. Scene 3.

Enter Strumbo aboue in a gowne, with inke and paper in his hand, saying;

nets and all the particular starres of the pole Antastick, are aduersative against me, or else I was begotten and borne in the wane of the Moone, when everie thing as saith Lactantius in his fourth booke of Constultations dooth say, goeth asward. I maissers I, you may laugh, but I must weepe; you may ioy, but I must sorrow; sheading salt teares from the watrie fountaines of my most edaintie saire eies, along my comely and smooth cheeks, in as great great plentie as the water runneth from the buckingtubbes, or red wine out of the hogs heads : for trust me gentlemen and my verie good friends, and fo foorth: the little god, nay the delperate god Cuprit, with one of his vengible birdbolts, hath shot me vnto the heele: fo not onlie, but also, oh fine phrase, I burne, I burne, and I burnea, in loue, in loue, and in loue a, ah Strumbo what haft thou feen, not Dina with the Affe Tom? Yea with these eies thou haft seene her, and therefore pull them out: for they will worke thy bale. Ah Strumbo haft thou heard, not the voice of the Nightingale, but a voice sweeter then hers, yea with these cares hast thou heard them, and therefore cut them off, for they haue caused thy forrow. Nay Strumbo kill thy selfe, drowne thy selfe, hang thy selfe, sterue thy selfe. Oh but then I shall leave my sweet heart. Oh my heart, Now pate for thy maister, I will dite an aliquant loue-piffle to her, and then the hearing the grand verbofitie of my scripture, will loue me presently.

The lamentable Tragedie of Locrine

Let him write a litle and then read. My penne is naught, gentlemen lend mea knife, I thinke the more hafte the worft speed.

Then write againe, and after read.

So it is mistresse Derothie, and the sole essence of my soule, that the little sparkles of affection kindled in metowards your sweet selfe, hath now increased to a great slame, and will ere it be long consume my poore heart, except you with the pleasant water of your secret sountaine, quench the surious heate of the same. Alasse I am a gentleman of good same, and name,

the eldest sonne of King Brutus.

name, maiesticall, in parrell comely, in gate portlie.

Let not therefore your gentle heart be so hard as to despile a proper tall young man of a handsome life, and by despiting him, not onlie, but also to kill him.

Thus expecting time and tide, I bid you farewell.

Your servant, Signior Strumbo.

Oh wit, Oh pate, O memorie, Ohand, O incke, O paper. Well now I will send it away. Trompart, Trompart, what a villaine is this? Why sirra, come when your maister calls you, Trompart.

Trompart entring faith;

Anon fir.

Strumbo. Thou knowest my prettie boy what a good maister I haue bene to thee euer since I tooke thee into my service.

Trom. I fir.

Strum. And how I have cherished thee alwaies, as if you had benethe fruit of my loines, flesh of my flesh, and bone of my bone?

Trom. I fir.

Strum. Then shew thy selfe herein a trustic seruant, and carrie this letter to mistresse Dorothie, and tell her. (Speaking in his care.

Exit Trompart.

Strum. Nay maisters you shall see a marriage by and by. But here she comes. Now must I frame my amorous passions.

Enter Dorothie and Trompart.

Doro. Signior Strumbo, well met, I received your letters by your man here, who told mee a pittifull storie of your anguish, and so vnderstanding your passions.

The lamentable Tragedie of Locrine

passions were so great, I came hither speedily.

Strum. Oh my sweet and pigsney, the secunditie of my ingenie is not so great, that may declare vnto you the sorrowful sobs and broken sleeps, that I suffred for your sake; and therefore I desire you to receive me into your familiaritie.

For your love doth lie,
As neare and as night
V nto my heart within,
As mine eye to my nose,
My legge unto my hose,
And my flesh unto my skin.

Dor. Truly M. Strumbo, you speaketoo learnedly for mee to vinderstand the drift of your mind, and therfore tell your tale in plaine termes, and leave off your darke ridles.

Strum. Alasse mistrelle Dorothie this is my lucke, that when I most would, I cannot be vnderstood: so that my great learning is an inconvenience vnto me. But to speake in plaine termes, I love you mistrelle Dorothie, if you like to accept me into your familiaritie.

Dor. If this be all I am content.

Turning to the people.

Strum. Saift thou so sweet wench, let me lick thy toes. Farwell mistresse. If any of you be in loue, prouide ye a capcase full of new coined wordes, and then shall you soone have the successe de labres, and something else.

(Exeunt.

The

the eldest some to King Brutus.

The first Act. Scene 4. Enter Locrine, Guendoline, Camber, Albanaet, Corineus, Affaracus, Debon, Thrasimachus.

Locrine. Vncle and princes of braue Britany, Since that our noble father is intombd, As best beseemd so brave a prince as he, If so you please, this day my loue and I, Within the temple of Concordia, Will solemnize our roiall marriage. Thra. Right noble Lord, your subjects every one,

Must needs obey your highnesse accommaund,

Especially in such a cause as this,

That much concerns your highnesse great content. Locr. Then frolick lordings to fair Concords wals, Where we will passethe day in knightly sports, The night in dauncing and in figured maskes,

And offer to God Rifus all our sports.

The 2. Act. Scene 1.

Enter Ateras before, after a little lightning and thundring, let there come forth this show. Perfeus and Andromeda, hand in hand, and Cephens also with fwords and targets. Then let there come out of an other doore, Phineus, all blacke in armour, with Aethiopians after him, driving in Perfeus, and hauing taken away Andromeda, let them depart. Ate remaining faying; Ate. Regit omnianumen.

When

The lamentable Tragedie of Locrine, When Perfeus married faire Andromeda, The onlie daughter of king Cepheres, Hethought he had establish well his Crowne, And that his kingdome should for aic endure. But loe proud Phineus with a band of men, Contriu'd of fun-burnt Aethiopians! By force of armes the bride he tooke from him, And turnd their joy into a floud of teares. So fares it with young Locrine and his loue, He thinkes this marriage tendeth to his weale, But this foule day, this foule accursed day, Is the beginning of his mileries. Behold where Humber and his Scithians Approchethnigh with all his warlike traine, I need not I, the sequel shall declare, What tragicke chances fall out in this warre.

The 2. Scene.

Enter Humber, Hubba, Estrilo, Segar, and their foul-diers.

Hum. At length the snailed oth clime the highest Ascending up the stately castle walls, (tops, At length the water with continual drops, Doth penetrate the hardest marble stone, At length we are arrived in Albion, Nor could the barbarous Dacian sourraigne, Nor yet the ruler of brave Belgia Staie us from cutting over to this sie, Whereas I heare a troope of Phrigians Under the conduct of Postumias source. Have pitched up lordly pavillions, the eldest fonne of King Brutus.

And

And hope to prosper in this louely Ile: But I will fruitrate all their foolish hope, And reach them that the Scithian Emperonr Leades fortune tied in a chaine of gold, Constraining her to yeeld vnto his will, And grace him with their regall diademe: Which I will have maugre their treble hoafts,

And all the power their pettie kings can make.

Hubba. If Inethat rules faire Rhamis golden gate Graunt vs the honour of the victorie, As hitherto she alwaies famourd vs, Right noble father, we will rule the land, Enthronized in seares of Topace Stones, That Lorrine and his brethren all may know, Nonemust be king but Humber and his sonne.

Hum. Courage my forme, fortune shall fauour vs, And yeeld to vs the coroner of bay, Thardecketh none but noble conquerours: But what faith Estrild to thefe regions? How liketh the the temperature thereof,

Are they not pleafant in her gratious eies? Astr. The plaines my Lord garnisht with Floras And ouerfpred with party colored flowers, (welth Do yeeld fweet contentation to my mind, The aierie hills enclosed with shadie groues, The groues replenishe with sweet chirping birds, The birds resounding heavenly melodie, Are equall tothe groves of Theffaly, Where Phabus with the learned Ladies nine, Delight themselves with musicke harmonie, And from the moisture of the mountainetops,

The

The lamentable Tragedie of Locrine The filent springs daunce downe with murmuring And water al g ground with criftal wates, (ftreams, The gentle blatts of Eurus modest winde, Mouing the pittering leaves of Silvanes woods, Do equall it with Tempes paradice, And thus comforted all to one effect. Do make methinkethese are the happie Iles, Most fortunate, if Humber may them winne. Hubba. Madam, where refolution leads the way, And courage followes with imboldened pace, Fortune can neuer vie her tyrannie, For valiantnesse is like vnto a rocke That standeth in the waves of Ocean. Which though the billowes beat on enery fide, And Borras fell with histempestuous stormes, Bloweth vpon it with a hideous clamour, Yet it remaineth still vnmooneable. Hum. Kingly resolu'd thou glorie of thy sire, But worthie Segar what vncoth nouelties Bringst thou vnto our royall maiestie? Seg. My Lord, the yoongest of all Brutus sonnes, Stout Albaniet, with millions of men. Approcheth nigh, and meaneth ere the morne, To trie your force by dint of farall fword. Hum. Tut let him come with millions of hoftes, He shall find entertainment good inough, Yea fit for those that are our enemies: For weell receive them at the launces points, And massaker their bodies with our blades: Yeathough they were in number infinit, More then the mightie Babilonian queene, Semir amis the eldest fonne of King Brutus. Semiramis the ruler of the West. Brought gainst the Emperour of the Scithians, Yet would we not flart back one foote from them: I hat they might know we are muincible. Hub. Now by great love the supremeking of hea-And the immortall gods that live therein, When as the morning shewes his chearfull face, And Lucifer mounted upon his fleed, Brings in the chariot of the golden funne, He meet yoong Albanact in the open field, And crack my launce vpon his burganer, To triethe valour of his boyish ftrength: There will I shew such ruthfull spectacles And cause so great effusion of blood, That all his boyes shall wonder at my strength: As when the warlike queene of Amazon, Penthifilea armed with her launce, Girt with a corflet of bright shining steele, Coupt vp the fainthart Gracians in the campe. Hum. Spokelikea warlike knight my noble fon, Nay like a prince that feekes his fathers ioy, Therefore to morrow erefaire Titan shine, And balhfull Eos mellenger of light: Expells the liquid fleep from out mens eyes, Thou shalt conduct the right wing of the hoste, The left wing shall be under Segars charge, The reareward shall be under me my selfe,

And louely Estrild faire and gratious,
If fortune fauour me in mine attempts,

Thou shalt bequeene of louely Albion,

Fortune shall fauour me in mine attempts,

And

The lamentable Tragedie of Locrine

And make the Queene of louely Albion.

Come let vs in and muster vp our traine,

And furnish vp our lustic souldiers,

That they may be a bullwarke to our state,

And bring our wished loyes to perfect end.

The 2. Scene.

Enter Strumbe, Derothie, Trompart cobling shooes and singing.

Trum. We Coblers lead a merie life,

All. Dan,dan,dan,dan:

Strum. Void of all ennie and of strife:

All. Dan diddle dan.

Dor. Our ease is great, our labour small:

All. Dan,dan,dan,dan.

Strum. And yet our gaines be much withall:

All. Dan diddledan.

Dor. With this art fo fine and faire:

All. Dan,dan,dan,dan.

Trum. No occupation may compare

All. Dandiddle dan:

Strum. For meriepastime and ioyfull glee: Dan, dan, dan, dan.

Dor. Most happie men we Coblers bee:
Dan diddledan.

Trnm. The can stands full of nappie ale, Dan:dan:dan:dan:

Strum. In our shop still withouten faile: Dan diddle dan.

Dor. This is our meate, this is our foode: Dan:dan:dan:dan:

Trum.

the eldest Sonne of King Brutus.

Trum. This brings vs to a mery mood: Dan didledan.

Strum. This makes vs worke for companie:
Dan, dan, dan, dan:

Dor. Topull the tankards cheerfully: Dandidle dan.

Trum. Drinke to thy husband Dorothie, Dan, dan, dan, dan:

Dor. Whythen my Strumbother's to thee:
Dan didledan:

Strum. Drinke thou the rest Trumpart amaine: Dan, dan, dan, dan.

Dor. When that is gone weell filt againe, Dan didledan.

Cap. The poorest state is farthest from annoy,
How merily he sitteth on his stoole:
But when he sees that needs he must be prest,
Heeleturne his note and sing another tune,
Ho, by your leave maister Cobler:

Stru. You are welcom gentleman, what wil you any olde shooes or buskins, or will you have your shooes clouted, I will do them as well as any Cobler in Cathues what soeuer?

Captaine shewing him presse mony.

O maister Cobler you are farre deceived in mee, for don you see this? I come not to buy any shooes, but to buy your selfe; come sir you must be a souldier in the kings cause.

ny commission to take any man against his will. I promise you I can scant beleeue it, or did hee give you commission?

The lamentable Tragedie of Lotrine

Cap. O sir, ye neede not care for that, I neede no commission; hold here, I command you in the name of our king Albanact, to appeare to motrow in the towne-house of Gathnes.

Strum. King Nactabell, Icrie God mercy, what have we to doo with him, or he with vs? but you fir master capoutaile, draw your pastebourd, or else I promise you, Ilegiue you a canualado with a bastinano ouer your shoulders, and teach you to come hither with your implements.

Car. I pray thee good fellow be content, I do the kings commaund.

Strum. Put me out of your bookethen.

Strumbo Inatching vp a staffe.

No will, come fir will your stomacke serue you, by gogs blew hood and halidom, I will have about with you.

Fight both.

Enter Thrasimachus.

How now, what noyle, what fodain clamors this?
How now, my captain and the cobler so hard at it?
Sirs what is your quarrell?

Cap. Nothing fir, but that he will not take prese (mony.

Thra. Here good fellow take it at my command, Vnlesse you meane to be stretcht.

Strum. Truly master gentleman, I lackeno mony, if you please I will resigne it to one of these poore fellowes.

the eldest sonne of King Brutus.

fellowes.

Thrasi. No such matter,

Looke you be at the common house to morrow. Exit Thrustmachus and the captaine.

Strum. O wife I have spunne a faire thredde, if I had bene quiet, I had not bene prest, and therefore well may I wayment; But come sirrha shut vp, for we must to the warres.

Exeunt.

The 4. Scene.

Enter Albanact, Debon, Thrasimachus, and the Lords.

Alba. Braue cauileres, princes of Albany, Whole trenchant blades with our deceased fire, Passing the frontiers of braue Gracia, Were bathed in our enemies lukewarme blood, Now is the time to manifest your wills, Your hautie mindes and resolutions, Now opportunities offred Totrie your courage and your earnest zeale, Which you alwaies protest to Albanact, For at this time, yea at this present time, Stone fugitives come from the Scithians bounds Haue pestred eneric place with mutinies: But trust me Lordings I will neuer cease To perfecute the rascall runnagates, Till all the rivers stained with their blood, Shall fully thew their fatall ouerthrow.

D 2

Debon_

The lamentable Tragedie of Locrine Deb. So shal your highnes merit great renowne, And imitate your aged fathers steppes. (plaines? Alba. But tell me cousin, camft thou through the And fawft thou there the faint heart fugitives Mustring their weather-beaten souldiers, What order keep they in their marshalling? Thra. After we past the groues of Caledone, Where murmuring rivers flide with filent ftreames. We did behold the stragling Scithians campe. Repleat with men, storde with munition; There might we feethe valiant minded knights Fetching carriers along the spatious plaines, Humber and Hubbs arm'd in azure blew, Mounted vpon their coursers white as snow, Went to behold the pleasant flowring fields; Hector and Troialus, Priamus louely fonnes, Chasing the Gracians ouer Simoeis, Were not to be compared to these two knights. Alba. Well hast thou painted out in eloquence. The portraiture of Humber and his sonne; As fortunate as was Policrates, Yet should they not escape our conquering swords. Or boaft of ought but of our clemencie. Enter Strumbo and Trompart, crying often; Wilde fire and pitch, wilde fire and pitch, &c. Thra. What firs what mean you by these clamors Those outcries raised in our stately court? (made, Strum. Wilde fire and pitch, wilde fire and pitch. Thra. Villaines I say, tell vs the cause hereos? Strum. Wildefireandpitch, &c. Thra. Tell me you villaines, why you make this the eldest some to King Brutus.

Or with my launce I will prick your bowels out.

Al. Where are your houses, wher's your dwelling (place?

Strum. Place, Ha, ha, ha, laugh, a moneth and a day at him; place, I cry God mercy, why doo you think that such poore honest me as we be, hold our habitacles in kings pallaces: Ha?ha, ha. But because you seeme to be an abhominable chieftaine, I wil tel you our state.

From the head to the shoe;
From the beginning to the ending,
From the building to the burning.

This honest fellow and I had our mansion cottage in the suburbes of this citie, hard by the temple of Mercury. And by the common souldiers of the Shitens, the Scithians; what do you call them? with all the suburbes were burnt to the ground, and the ashes are left there, for the countrie wives to wash buckes withall. And that which greeves me most, my louing wife, Ocruell strife; the wicked slames did roast.

And therefore captaine crust,
We will continuallie crie,
Except you seeke a remedie
Our houses to redisie
Which now are burnt to dust.

Bothery; Wild fire and pitch, wild fire and pitch.
D 3 Alba.

The lamentable Tragedie of Locrine
Alba. Well we must remedie these outrages,
And throw revenge vpon their hatefull heads,
And you good sellowes for your houses burnt,
We will remunerate you store of gold,
And build your houses by our pallace gate.

Strumbo. Gate, O pettie treason to my person, no where else but by your backside; gate, oh how I am vexed in my coller, gate, I crie God mercie, doo you hear master king? If you mean to gratiste such poore men as we bee, you must build our houses by the Tauerne.

Alba. It shall bedone fir.

Strum. Neare the Tauerne, I by ladie sir it was spoken like a good fellow. Do you heare sir, when our house is builded, if you do chance to passe or repasse that way, we will bestowe a quart of the best wine vpon you?

Exit

Alb. It greenes melordings that my subjects goods
Should thus be spoiled by the Scithians,
Who as you see with lightsoote forragers
Depopulate the places where they come,
But cursed Homber thou shalt rue the day
That ere thou camft vnto Cathuesia.

Exeunt.

The 2. Act. Scene 5.
Enter Humber, Hubba, Segar, Trussier, and their fouldiers.

Hum. Hubba, go take a coronet of our horse As many launciers, and light armed knights As may suffice for such an enterprise,

And

And place them in the groue of Caledon,
Vith these, when as the skirmish doth encrease
Retire thou from the sheltiers of the wood,
And set vpon the weakened Troians backs,
For pollicie in yned with chiualrie
Can neuer be put back from victorie.

Albanact enter and fay, clownes with him.

Thou base borne Hunne, how durst thou be so bold As once to menace warlike Albanaet?
The great commander of these regions,
But thou shalt buy thy rashnesse with thy death,
And rue too late thy ouer bold attempts,
For with this sword this instrument of death,
That hath bene drenched in my foe-mens blood,
Ile separate thy bodie from thy head,
And set that coward blood of thine abroach.

Strum. Nay with this staffe great Strumbos instruIle crack thy cockscome paltry Scithian. (ment,
Hum. Nor wreake I of thy threats thou princox Nordo I feare thy foolish insolencie, (boy,
And but thou better vsethy bragging blade,
Then thou doest rule thy overslowing toong,
Superbious Brittaine, thou shalt know too soone
The force of Humber and his Scithians.

Humber and his fouldiers runne in.

Strum. O horrible, tetrible.

The lamentable Tragedie of Locrine

Sound the alarme.

Enter Humber and his fouldiers.

Hum. How brauely this yoong Brittain Albanaet
Darteth abroad the thunderbolts of warre,

Beating downe millions with his furious moode; And in his glorie triumphs ouer all, Mouing the massie squadrants of the ground; Heape hills on hills, to scale the starrie skie, When Briareus armed with an hundreth hands Floong forth an hundreth mountains at great love, And when the monstrous giant Monichus

Hurld mount Olimpus at great Mars his targe,
And shot huge cædars at Mineruas shield;
How doth he ouerlooke with hautic front
My fleeting hostes, and lifts his lostie face
Against vs all that now do feare his force,
Like as we see the wrathfull sea from farre
In a great mountaine heapt with hideous noise
With thousand billowes here against the ships

VVith thousand billowes beat against the ships.
And tosse them in the waves like tennis balls.

Sound the alarme.

Humb. Ay me, I feare my Hubba is surprise.

Sound againe; Enter Albanaet.

Alba. Follow me souldiers, follow Albanaët;
Pursue the Scithians flying through the field:
Let none of them escape with victorie:
That they may know the Brittains force is more
Then al the power of the trembling Hunnes. (chase, Thra. Forward braue souldiers, forward keep the

He

the eldest fonne to King Brutus.

He that takes captine Humber or his sonne, Shall be rewarded with a crowne of gold.

Sound alarme, then let them fight, Humber give backe, Hubba enter at their backs, and kill Debon, let Strumbo fall downe, Albanact run in, and afterwards enter wounded.

Alba. Injurious fortune hast thou crost methus? Thus in the morning of my victories, Thus in the prime of my felicitie To cut me off by such hard ouerthrow: Hadft thou no time thy rancor to declare, But in the spring of all my dignities? Hadft thou no place to fpit thy venome out But on the person of young Albanact? Ithatere while did scare mine enemies, And droue them almost to a shamefull flight, I that erewhile full hon-like did fare Amongst the dangers of the thick throngd pikes, Must now depart most lamentably slaine By Humbers trecheries and fortunes spights: Curft betheir charms, damned be her curfed charms That doth delude the waiward harts of men. Of menthat trust vnto her fickle wheele, Which never leaveth turning vpfide downe. Ogods, Oheauens, allot me but the place Where I may finde her hatefull mansion, He passethe Alpes to watry Meroe, Where fierie Fhabus in his charriot The wheels wherof are dect with Emeraldes, Caft such a heate, yea such a scorching heate, And spoileth Flora of her checquered graffe,

Ne

The lamentable Tragedie of Locrine The ouerrun the mountaine Canculus, Where fell Chimara in her triple thape Rolleth hot flames from out her monftrous panch, Scaring the beafts with iffue of her gorge He pallethe frozen Zone where yfie flakes Stopping the passage of the fleeting shippes Dolle, like mountaines in the congeald lea, Where if I finde that hatefull house of hers. He pull the fickle wheele from out her hands, And tie her felfe in everlasting bands: om the old But all in vaine I breath these threatnings, The day is loft, the Hunnes are conquerors, Debon is flaine, my men are done to death, The currents swift, swimme violently with bloods And last, Othat this last night so long last, My felfe with woundes past all recourry, Must leave my crowne for Humber to possesse. Strum. Lord have mercy vpon vs; mafters I think this is a holieday, enerie man lies fleeping in the fields, but Godknowes full foreagainft their wills.

Thra: Flienoble Albanaët and faue thy selfe,
The Scithians follow with great celeritie,
And ther's no way but fight, or speedie death,
Flienoble Albanaët and saue thy selfe.

Sound the alarme.

Alba. Nay let them flie that feare to die the death. That tremble at the name of farall mors, Neu'r shall proud Humber boast or brag bimselse. That he hath put young Albanact to flight.

And least he should triumph at my decay,
This sword shall reaue his maister of his life,

Thar

That oft hath sau'd his maisters doubtfull life: But oh my brethren if you care for me, Reuenge my death vpon his traiterous head.

Et vos queis domus est nigrantis regia ditis,

Qui regitis rigido stigios moderamine lucos:

Nox caci regina poli furialis Erinnis

Diique de aque omnes Albanum tollite regem

Tollite flumineis vudis rigidaque palude

Nunc me fata vocant, hoc condam pectore ferrum.

Thrust himselfe through.

m.M.) . munh Enter Prompart ? minels guind

O what hath he don, his note bleeds? but oh I fine! a Looke where my mailter lies, mafter, mafter. (foxe, Strum. Let mealone I tell thee, for I am dead.

Trum. Yet one, good, good, mafter.

Strum. I will not speake, for I am dead I tel thee.

Trum. And is my mafter dead?

Officks and flones, brickbars and bones, and is my mafter dead?

that in the woods dwell:

You briers and brambles, you cookes shoppes and come how leand yell. (shambles,

With howling & screeking with waiting and weecome you to lament! and to the (ping.

O Colliers of Croyden, and rufticks of Royden, and filters of Kent.

For Strumbothe cobler, the fine mery cobler of Cathnes towner on the land

I'um.

E 2

A

At this same stoure, at this very houre lies dead on the ground.

Omaister, theenes, theenes, theenes.

Strum. Where be they? cox me tunny, bobekin let me be tiling, be gone, we shall be robde by and

by. (Excunt.

Enter Humber, Hubba, Segar, Thrafsier, Estrild, and the fouldiers.

Hum. Thus from the dreadful shocks of furious Thundring alarmes, and Rhammusian drum (Marse We are retyred with ioysull victorie, The slaughtered Troians squeltring in their blood, Infect the aire with their carcasses, And are a praic for enerie rauenous bird.

So perish they that are our enemies.
So perish they that love not Humbers weale.
And mightie love commander of the world,
Protect my love from all false trecheries.

Hum. Thanks louely Estrild, solace to my soule:
But valiant Hubba for thy chinalrie
Declarde against the men of Albany,
Loe here a flowring garland wreathed of bay,
As a reward for thy forward minds.

Set it on his head:

Hub. This vnexpected honor noble fire,
VVill prick my courage vnto brauer deeds,
And cause me to attempt such hard exploits,
That all the world shall found of Hubbaes name.

Hum.

the eldest somme to King Brutus.

Hum. And now brave fouldiers for this good fireCarouse whole cups of Amazonian wine, (cesse, Sweeter then Nectar or Ambrosia,
And cast away the clods of cursed care,
Vith goblets crownd with Semeleius gifts;
Now let vs martch to Abis silver streames
That clearly glide along the Champane fields,
And moist the grassic meades with humid drops.
Sound drummes & trumpets, sound vp cheersully,
Sith we returne with ioy and victorie.

The 3. Act. Scene 1.

Enter Ate as before. The dumb show. A Crocadile sitting on a rivers banke, and a little Snake stinging it. Then let both of them fall into the water.

Ate. Scelera in authorem cadunt.

High on a banke by Wiles boystrous streames,
Fearfully far the Aegiptian Crocodile,
Dreadfully grinding in her sharpe long teethe,
The broken bowels of a filly fish,
His back was armde against the dint of speare,
VVith shields of brasse that shind like burnisht gold
And as he stretched forth his cruell pawes,
A subtill Adder erceping closely neare
Thrusting his forked sting into his clawes,
Privily shead his poison through his bones
VV hich made him swelt hat there his bowels burst,
That did so much in his owne greatnesse trust.
So Humber having conquered Albanast,
Doth yeeld his glorie vnto Lacrines sword.

E 3

Marke!

The lamentable Tragedie of Locrine
Marke what enfues and you may eafily fee,
That all our life is but a Tragedie.

Enter Locrine, Guendoline, Corineus, Affaracus, Thrasimachus, Camber.

Locrine. And is this true, is Albanactus flaine? Hath curied Humber with his ftragling hofte With that his armie made of mungrell curres, Brought our redoubted brother to his end. Othat I had the Thracian Orpheus harpe For to awake out of the infernal! shade Those ougly dines of black Erebas. That might torment the damned traitors foule: Othat I had Amphions instrument To quicken with his vitall notes and tunes The flintie ioynts of euerie stonie rocke, By which the Scithians might be punished, For by the lightening of almightie love The Hunne shall die, had he ten thousand lives: And would to God he had ten thousand lives. That I might with the arme-ftrong Hercules Crop off fovilean Hidras hissing heads, But fay me cousen, for I long to heare How Albanact came by vntimely death? Thrasi. After the traitrous hoast of Scithians. Entred the field with martiall equipage Young Albanact impatient of delaie Ledde forth his armie gainst the stragling mates, Whose multitude did daunt our souldiers mindes.

Yct

the eldeft formeto King Brutus: Yet nothing could difmay the forward prince, But with a courage most heroicall Liketo alion mongst a flock of lambes Made hauocke of the faintheart fugitives, Hewing a pallagethrough them with his fword, Yea we had almost given them the repulle When fuddeinly from out the filent wood Hubba with twentie thousand souldiers Cowardly came y pon our weakened backes, And murthered all with fatall maffacre; Amongft the which old Debon martiall knight, With many wounds was brought vnto the death. And Albanict oppress with multitude. Whilst valiantly he feld his enemies. Yeelded his life and honour to the duft. He being dead, the fouldiers fled amaine, And I alone escaped them by flight, To bring you tidings of the leaccidents. Locr. Not aged Priam King of Stately Troy, Graund Emperour of barbarous Afta, When he beheld his noble minded formes Slaine traiteroufly by all the Mermidons, Lamented more then I for Albanact. Guen. Not Hecabathequeene of Ilsum. When the beheld the towne of Pergamus, Her pallace burnt, with all devonring flames, Her fiftie sonnes and daughters fresh of hue, Murthred by wicked Pirrhus bloodie fword, Shed such sad teares as I for Albanact. Cam. Thegriefe of Niobe faire Athensqueene, For her seuen sonnes magnanimious in field,

For

The lamentable Tragedie of Locrine For her seuen daughters fairer then the faireft, Is not to be comparde with my laments. Cor. In vain you forow for the flaughered prince. In vain you fortow for his ouerthrow. He loues not most that doth lament the most. But he that feekes to venge the iniurie. Thinke you to quell the enemies warlike traine. VVith childish sobsand womannish laments? Vnsheath your fwords, vnsheath your conquering And feek reuenge, the comfort for this fore, (fword, In Cornwall where I hold my regiment Even just tenne thousand valiant men at armes Hath Corineus readie at commaund: All these and more, if need shall more require, Hath Corrineus readie at commaund. Cam. And in the fields of martiall Cambria, Close by the boystrous Iscans filuer streames, VV here lightfoote faires (kip from banke to banke, Full twentiethou and brave couragious knights VVell exercise in searces of chiualrie, In manly maner most inuincible, Yoong Camber hath with gold and victuall, All these and more, if need shall more require, I offer vp to venge my brothers death. Loc. Thanks louing vncle and good brother too. For this revenge, for this fweete word revenge Must case and ceasethy wrongfull injuries, And by the fword of bloodie Mars I fweare, Nere shall sweete quiet enter this my front, Till I be venged on his traiterous head That flew my noble brother Albanact.

Sound

Exeunt.

The 3. Scene.

Erner Hamber, Estrild, Hubba, Trussier, and the souldiers.

Vnto the flowing currents filter ftreames
Which in memoriall of our victorie,
Shall be agnominated by our name,
And talked of by our posteritie:
For sure I hope before the golden sunne
Posteth his horses to faire There plaines,
To see the waters turned into blood,
And chaunge his blewish hue to rufull red,
By reason of the fatall massacre
Which shall be made upon the virent plaines.
Enter the ghoast of Almanaet.

See how the traitor doth prefage his harme, See how he glories at his owne decay, See how he triumphs at his proper loffe, Oforume vilde, vnftable, fickle, fraile.

Hum. Methinkes I fee both armies in the field,
The broken launces clime the cristall skies,
Some headlesse lie, some breathlesse on the ground,
And every place is strawd with carcasses,
Behold the grasse hath lost his pleasant greene,
Thesweetest sight that ever might be seene.
Ghost. I traiterous Humber, thou shalt find it so,

Makes

F

Yea

The lamentable Tragedie of Locrine Yearothy cost thou shalt the same beholds With anguish, forrow, and with sad laments. I he grassie plaines that now do please thine eies. Shall ere the night be coloured all with blood. I he shadie groues which now inclose thy campe And yeeld fiveet fauours to thy damned corps, Shall ere the night be figured all with blood, The profound streamethat passeth by thy tents. And with his moisture feruethall thy campe, Shall erethenight contretted be to blood, oil Yeawith the blood of those thy firaging boyes, For now reuenge shall ease my lingring griefe, And now revenge shall glut my longing foule! Hub. Let come what wil, I meane to be are it out, And either live with glorious victorie. id il flo Or die with fame renowmed for chinalrie, He is not worthie of the honie combe That thuns the hives because the bees have flings, That likes me best that is not got with ease, Which thousand daungers do accompany, For nothing can difmayour regall minde, Which aimes at nothing but a golden crowne, The only vpshot of mine enterprises, Were they inchanted in grimme Plutos court, And kept for treasure mongst his hellish ctue, I would either quell the triple Cerberus And all the armie of his harefull hags,

Or roll the stone with wretched Sisiphon.

Hum. Right martiall be thy thoughts my noble.

And all thy words sauour of chiu alries (sonne,
But warlike Segar vihat strange accidents

Makes

the eldest sonne to King Brutus.

Makes you to leave the warding of the campe.

Segar. To armes my Lord, to honourable armes, Take helme and targe in hand the Brittaines come, With greater multitude then erft the Greekes Brought to the ports of Phrigian Tenidos.

Hum. But what faith Segar to these accidents?

What counsell gives he in extremities?

Seg. Why this my Lord experience teacheth vs,
That resolution is a sole helpe at need.
And this my Lord our honour teacheth vs,
That we be bold in euerie enterprise,
Then since there is no way but fight or die,

Beresolute my Lord for victorie.

Hum. And resolute Segar I meane to be, Perhaps some bliffull starre will fauour vs, And comfort bring to our perplexed state: Come let vs in and sortifie our campe, Soto with stand their strong inuation.

Exeunt.

The 4. Scene.

Enter Strumbe, Trumpart, Oliver, and his sonne VVilliam following them.

Strum. Nay neighbour Oliner, if you be so whot, come prepare your selfe, you shall finderwo as stout fellowes of vs, as any in all the North.

oliu. No by my dorth neighbor Strumbe, Ich zee dat you are a man of small zideration, dat wil zeek to iniure your olde vreendes, one of your vamiliar guests, and derefore zeeing your pinionis to deale

F 2

withouten

The lamentable Tragedie of Locrine

withouten reazon, iche and my zonne VV illiam will take dat course, dat shall be fardest vrom reason, how zay you, will you have my daughter or no?

Strum. A verie hard question neighbour, but I will solue it as I may; what reason have you to demaund it of me?

Wil. Marry sir, what reason had you when my sister was in the barneto tumble her vpon the haie, and to fish her belly.

Strum. Mas thou saist true, well, but would you have me marry her therefore? No I scorne her, and you, and you. I, I scorne you all.

Olin. You will not have her then?

Strum. No as I am a true gentleman.

VVil. Then wil we schoole you, ere you and we part hence.

Enter Margerie and fnatch the staffe out of her brothers hand, as he is fighting.

Strum. I you come in pudding time, or else I had dreft them.

Mar. You master sausebox, lobcock, cockscomb, you slopsauce, lickfingers, will you not heare?

Strum. Who speake you too, me?

Mar. I sirto you, Iohn lackhonestie, little wit, is it you that will have none of me?

Strum. No by my troth, mistressenicebice, how fine you ca nicknameme, I think you were broght vp in the vniuersitie of bridewell, you have your thetorick soready at your toongs end, as if you were never

the eldest some to King Brutus.

neuer well warned when your were young.

Mar. Whythen goodman cods-head, if you wil have none of me, farewell.

Strum. If you besoplaine mistresse drigte dragle, fare you well.

Mar. Nay mafter Strumbo, ere you go from hence we must have more words, you will have none of me?

They both fight.

Strum. Oh my head, my head, leaue, leaue, leaue, I will, I will.

Mar. Vpon that condition Het thee alone.

oliu. How now mafter Strambo, hath my daughter taught you a new lesson?

Strum. Ibut heareyou goodman Oliver? it will not bee for my ease to have my head broken cuerie day, therefore remedie this and we shall agree.

oli. Wellzonne well, for you are my zonne now, all shall be remedied, daughter be friends with him.

Shake hands.

Strum. You are a fweet nut; the divel crack you. Maisters I thinke it be my lucke, my first wife was a louing quiet wench, but this I thinke would weary the divell. I would she might be burnt as my other wife was. If not, I must runne to the halter for help. O codpecce thou hast done thy maister, this it is to be medling with warme plackets.

Excunt.

The

The lamentable Tragedie of Locrine

Enter Locrine, Camber, Corineus, Thrasimachus, Assarachus.

Loc. Now am I garded with an hofte of men, VV hose hautie courage is inuincible, Now am I hembde with troupes of fouldiers, Such as might force Bellona to retire, And make her tremble at their puillance, Now fit I like the mightie god of warre, VVhen armed with his coat of Adament, Mounted his charriot drawne with mighty bulls, Hedroue the Argines ouer X anthus streames. Now cursed Humber doth thy end draw nie, Downe goes the glorie of his victories, And all his fame, and all his high renowne Shall in a moment yeeld to Locrines (word, Thy bragging banners croft with argent streames, The ornaments of thy pauillions Shall all be captiliated with this hand, And thou thy selfe at Albanactus tombe Shalt offred be in fatiffaction Of all the wrongs thou didft him when he liu'd. But canst thou tell me braue Thrasimachus, How farre we are distant from Humbers campe? Thra. My Lord, within your foule accurfed groue That beares the tokens of our ouerthrow, This Humber hath intrencht his damned campe. March on my Lord, because I long to see The trecherous Seithians squeltring in their gore. Locrine.

the eldest sonne to King Brutus.

Locri. Sweet fortune fauour Locrine with a smile,
That I may venge my noble brothers death,
And in the midst of stately Troinonant,
Ile build a temple to thy deitie
Of perfect marble and of lacinthe stones,
That it shall passe the high Pyramides
VVhich with their top surmount the sirmament.

Cam. The armestrong offpring of the doubted Stout Hercules Alemenas mightie sonne, (knight, That tamde the monsters of the threefold world, And rid the oppressed from the tyrants yokes, Did neuer shew such valiantnesse in fight,

As I will now for noble Albanact.

Sometime in warre, sometime in quierpeace,
And yet I feelony selfe to be as strong
As erst I was insommer of mine age,
Able to tossethis great vnwildie club
V hich hath bin painted with my soemens brains,
And with this club ile breake the strong arraie
Of Humber and his stragling souldiers,
Or loose my life amongst the thickest prease,
And die with honour in my latest daies,
Yet ere I die they all shall vnderstand
VV hat sorcelies in stout Corineus hand.

Thra. And if Thrasimachus detract the fight, Either for weaknesse or for cowardise, Let him not boast that Brutus was his came, Or that brave Corineus was his sire.

Loc. Then courage souldiers, first for your safetie, Next for your peace, last for your victory. (Exeunt. Sound The lamentable Tragedie of Locrine
Sound the alarme.
Enter Hubba and Segar at one doore, and Corineus at the other.

That by thy treason slewst young Albanaet?

Hub. I am his sonne that slew young Albanaet,
And if thou take not heed proud Phrigian,
Ile send thy soule vnto the Stigian lake,
There to complaine of Humbers injuries.

Cori. You triumph fir before the victorie,
For Corineus is not so soone slaine.
But cursed Scithians you shall rue the day
That ere you came into Albania.
So perish that they enuie Brittaines wealth,
So let them die with endlesse infamie,
And he that seekes his soueraignes ouerthrow,
Would this my club might aggranate his woe.

Strikes them both downewith his club.

Where may I finde some desart wildernesse, Where I may breath out curses as I would, And scare the earth with my condemning voice, Where eueric ecchoes repercussion May helpe me to be waile mine ouerthrow, And aide me in my sorrowfull laments? Where may I finde some hollow vncoth rocke, Where I may damne, condemne and ban my fill, The heavens, the fiell, the earth, the aire, the fire, And vtter curses to the concaues kie, Which may infect the aiery regions, And light vpon the Brittain Locrines head?

You

the eldest Conne to King Brutus. You vgly sprites that in Cocttus mourne, And gnash your teeth with dolorous laments, Yeafearfull dogs that in black Lathe howle, And scare the ghoafts with your wide open throats, You vgly ghoafts that flying from these dogs, Do plunge your felues in Puryflegiton, Comeall of you, and with your thriking notes Accompaie the Brittaines conquering hoaft. Come fierce Erimis horrible with fnakes, Come vgly Furies, armed with your whippes, You threefold judges of black Tartarus, And all the armie of you hellish fiends, With new found tormers rack proud Locrins bones Ogods, and starres, damned be the gods & starres That did not drowneme in faire Thetis plaines. Curft be the feathat with outragious wanes With furging billowes did not rive my thippes Against the rocks of high Cerannia, Or swallowed me into her watrie gulfe, Would God we had arriv'd vpon the shore Where Poliphlemus and the Cyclops dwell, Or where the bloodie Anthropomphagie With greedie iawes devours the wandring wights, Enter the ghoaft of Albanact. But why comes Albanacts bloodie ghoaft, To bring a corfine to our miferies? Ist not inough to suffer shamefull flight, But we must be tormented now with ghoasts, With apparitions fearfull to behold. Choast. Revenge, revenge for blood. Hum. So nought wil satisfie your wandring ghost

But dire revenge, nothing but Humbers fall,
Because he conquerd you in plbany.
Now by my soule Humber would be condemn'd
To Tantals hunger or Ixions wheele,
Or to the vultur of Prometheus,
Rather then that this murther were vndone.
When as I die ile dragge thy curled ghoast
Through all the rivers of foule Erebus,
Through burning sulphur of the Limbo-lake,
To allaie the burning furie of that heate
That rageth in mine everlasting soule.

Exeunt.

Alba.ghost. Vindicta, vindicta.

The 4. Act. Scene 1.

Enter Ate as before. Then let their follow Omphale daughter to the king of Lydia, having aclub in her hand, and a lions skinne on her back, Hercules following with a distasse. Then let Omphale turn about, and taking off her pantosse, strike Hercules on the head, then let them depart. Ate remaining, saying;

Quem non Argolici mandata seuera Tyranni, Non potuit Iuno vincere, vicit amor.

Stout Hercules the mirrour of the world, Sonne to Alemena and great Jupiter, After so many conquests wonne in field,

After

After so many monsters queld by force,
Yeelded his valiant heart to Omphale,
A fearfull woman voyd of manly strength,
Sherooke the club, and ware the lions skinne,
Herooke the wheele, and maidenly gan spinne.
So martiall Locrine cheerd with victorie,
Falleth in love with Humbers concubine,
And so forgetteth peerlesse Guendoline.
His vncle Corineus stormes at this,
And forceth Locrine for his grace to sue,
Loc here the summe, the processe doth ensue.

Exit.

The 2. Scene.

Enter Locrine, Camber, Corineus, Affaracus, Thrasimachus, and the souldiers.

Loc. Thus from the fury of Bellonas broiles,
With found of drumme and trumpets melodie,
The Brittaine king returnes triumphanly,
The Scithians flaine with great occision,
Do æqualize the graffe in multitude, (brookes,
And with their biood haue staind the streaming
Offering their bodies and their dearest blood
As sacrifice to Albanastus ghoast,
Now cursed Humber hast thou payd thy due,
For thy deceits and crastic trecheries,
For all thy guises, and damned stratagems,
With losse of life, and enerduring shame.
Where are thy horses trapt with burnisht gold,
G 2 Thy

The lamentable Tragedie of Locrine Thy trampling courlers rulde with foming bits? Where are thy fouldiers strong and numberlesses. Thy valiant captains and thy noble peeres? Euen as the countrie clownes with tharpest fithes Do mowe the withered graffe from off the earth. Or as the ploughman with his piercing share Renteth the bowels of the fertile fields, And rippeth vp the rootes with razours keene. So Locrine with his mightie curtleaxe, Hath cropped off the heads of all thy Hunnes. So Locrines peeres have daunted all thy peeres, And drouethine hoaft vnto confusion. That thou maist suffer penance for thy fault, And die for murdring valiant Albanat. Cori. And thus, yearhus shall all the rest be seru'd! That seeke to enter Albion gainst our willes. If the braue nation of the Troglodites, If all the coleblacke Aethiopians, If all the forces of the Amazons, If all the hoftes of the Barbarian lands, Should dare to enter this our little world, Soone should they rue their ouerbold attempts, That after vs our progenie may fay, Thereliethebeasts that sought to vsurpour land. Loc. I they are beafts that feeke to viurp our land, And like to brutish beafts they shall be serv'd: For mightie love the supreame king of heaven, That guides the concourse of the Metiors, And rules the motion of the azure skie, Fights alwaies for the Brittaines fafetie. But staie, mee thinkes I heare some shriking noise, That the eldest some to King Brutus. That draweth neareto our pauillion. Enter the fouldiers leading in Estrild. Estrild. What prince so ere adornd with golden Doth sway the regall sceptler in his hand: And thinks no chance can ever throw him downe. Or that his flate shall everlasting stand, Let him behold poore Estrild in this plight, The perfect platforme of a troubled wight. Once was I guarded with manortiall bands, Compast with princes of the noble blood, Now am I fallen into my foemens hands, And with my death must pacifie their mood. O lifethe harbour of calamities, Odeath the hauen of all mileries, I could compare my forrowes to thy woe, Thou wretched queen of wretched Pergamus, But that thou viewdit thy enemies ouerthrow, Nightotherocke of high Capharens, Thou sawfitheir death, and then departed fithence. I must abide the victors insolence. The gods that pittied thy continuall griefe, Transformd thy corps, and with thy corps thy care, Poore Estrildlives dispairing of reliefe, For friends in trouble are but fewe and rare. What faid I fewe? I fewe or none at all, For cruell death made havock of them all. Thrice happiethey whose fortune was so good, To end their lives, and with their lives their woes,

Oh souldiers is there any miserie,

To

Thrice haplesse I, whomefortune so withstood,

That cruelly the gaue meto my foes.

The lamentable Tragedic of Locrine To be comparde to fortunes trecherie. Loc. Camber, this same shuld bethe Scithia queen. Cam. So may we judge by her lamenting words. Loc. So faire a dame mine cies did neuer fee, With floods of woes the feems orewhelmed to bee Cam. O Locrine hath the not a cause for to be fad? Locrine at one fide of the stage. If the haue cause to weepe for Humbers death, And thead fault teares for her overthrow, Locrine may well bewaile his proper griefe, Locrine may moue his owne peculiar woe, He being conquerd died a speedie death, And felt not long his lamentable fmart, I being conqueror, liue a lingring life, And feele the force of Cupids Suddaine Stroke. I gaue him cause to die a speedie death, He left me cause to wish a speedie death. Oh that sweete face painted with natures dye, Those roseall cheeks mizt with a snowy white, That decent necke surpassing yuorie, Those comely brefts which Venus well might spite, Are like to mares which wylie fowlers wrought, Wherein my yeelding heart is prisoner cought. The golden treffes of her daintie haire Which shine like rubies glimering with the sinne, Haue so entrapt poore Locrines louelick heart, That from the same no way it can be wonne. How true is that which oft I heard declard, One dramme of ioy, must have a pound of care. Efr. Hard is their fall who from a golden crown Are cast into a sea of wretchednesse.

Loc.

the eldeft forme to King Brutus, Loc. Hard is their thrall who by Cupids frowne Are wrapt in waves of endlesse carefulnesse. Eftr. Uh kingdome obiect to all miseries. Loc. Oh loue, the extreemst of all extremities. · Let him go into his chaire. A fold. My Lord, in ranfacking the Scithian tents I found this Ladie, and to manifest That earnest zeale I beare vnto your grace, I here present her to your maieftie. Another fold. Helies my Lord, I found the Ladie And here present her to your maiestie. 1. Sold. Prefumptuous villaine wilt thou take my 2.5d. Nayrather thou deprineft me of my right. 1. Sol. Relignethytitle (catine) vntome, Or with my fword ile pearce thy cowards loines. 2. Sol. Softwords good fir, tis not inoghto fpeak A barking dog doth fildome strangers bite. . Loc. Vnreuerent villains, ftuue you in our fight? Take them hence laylor to the dungeon, There let them lie and trie their quarrell out. But thou faire princesse be no whit dismayd, But rather joy that Locrine fauours thee. Eftr. How can be fauor methat flew my spoule? Loc. The chance of war (my loue) tooke him fro Eft. But Locrine was the causer of his death. (thee Loc. He was an enemy to Locrines state,

And flue my noble brother Albanact.

Estr. But he was linckt to me in marriage bond,
And would you have me love his slaughterer?

Loc. Better to live, then not to live at all.

Estrild.

The lamentable Tragedie of Locrine Estrild. Better to die renownd for chastitie, Then live with shame and endlesse infamic. What would the common fort report of me, If I forget my loue, and cleave to thee? Loc. Kings need not feare the vulgar fentences. Eftr. But Ladies must regard their honest name. Loc. Is it a shame to line in marriage bonds? Estr. No but to be astrumpet to a king. Loc. If thou wilt yeeld to Locrines burning lone, Thou shalt be queene of faire Albania. Eftr. But Guendoline will vndermine my ftate. Lo. Vpon mine honorthou shalt have no harme. Eft. Then lo brane Locrine, Eftrild yeelds to thee, And by the gods whom thou doeft in uocate. By the dead ghoaft of thy deceased fire, By thy right hand and by thy burning loue, Take pitie on poore Estrilds wretched thrall. Cori. Hath Lecrine then forgot his Guendoline, That thus he courts the Scithians paramore? VV hat are the words of Brute fo foone forgot? Are my deferts fo quickly out of minde? Haue I bene faithfull to thy fire now dead, Haue I protected thee from Humbers hands, And doeft thou quite me with vngratitude? Is this the guerdon for my greeuous wounds, Is this the honour for my labors past? Now by my fword, Locrine I fweare to thee, This injury of thine shall be repaide. Loc. Vncle, scorne you your royall soueraigne, As if we flood for cyphers in the count? Vpbraid you me with those your benefits?

VVhy

Why it was a subjects dutie so to do.
What you have done for our deceased sire,
We know, and all know you have your reward.
Cori. Anaunt proud princoxe, brau'st thou me Assure thy self though thou be Emperor (withall,

Thou nere shalt carry this vnpunished.

Pardon this once and it shall be amended.

Assar, Cousin remember Brutus latest words, How he desired you to cherish them, Let not this fault so much incense your minde,

Which is not yet passed all remedie.

Cori. Then Locrine, loe I reconcile my selfe, But as thou lou'st thy life, so loue thy wife:
But if thou violate those promises,
Blood and renenge shall light upon thy head.
Come let us backe to stately Troinouant,
Where all these matters shall be setteled.

Locrine to himselfe.

Millions of divels wayt vpon thy soule.

Legions of spirits vexethy impious ghoaft.

Tenthousand torments rack thy curled bones.

Let everiething that hath the vie of breath,

Be instruments and workers of thy death.

Exeunt.

The 3. Scene. And Alaren

Enter Humber alone, his haire hanging ouer his shoulders, his armes all bloodie, and a dart in one hand.

Hum. What balilifkt was hatched in this place,
Where

The lamentable Tragedie of Locrine Where everiething confirmed is to nought? What fearefull Furie haunts thefecurfed groues, Where not a roote is left for Humbers meate? Hath fell Alecto with invenomed blafts. Breathed forth poylon in thele tender plaines? Hath triple Cerberus with contagious fome, Sowde Aconitum mongft thefe withered hearbes? Hath dreadfull Fames with her charming rods Brought barreinnesse on every fruitfull tree? What not aroote, no frute, no beaft, no bird, To nourish Humber in this wildernessel. What would you more you fiends of Erebus. My verie intralls burne for want of drinke, My bowels crie, Humber gine vs fome meate, But wretched Humber can give you no meare, These foule accursed groues affoord no meat. This fruitles foyle, this groud brings forth no mean The gods, hard harted gods, yeeld me no meat. Then how can Humber give you any meat?

Enter Strumbo with a pitchforke, and a scotch-eap, faying:

How do you maisters, how do you? how have you scaped hanging this long time? yfaith I have scapt many a scouring this yeare, but I thanke God I have past them all with a good couragio, couragio, & my wife & I are in great love and charitie now, I thank my manhood & my strength, for I wil tell you maisters, vpon a certain day at night I came home, to say the verietruth, with my stomacke full of wine, and tan vp into the chamber where my wife soberty sate rocking.

the eldest fonne to King Brutus.

rocking my little babie, leaning her back against the bed, finging Iullabie. Now when the faw me come with my note formost, thinking that I bin drunk, as I was indeed, inatcht vp a fagot flick inher hand, and came furiously marching towards me with a bigge face, as though thee would have eaten mee at a bit; thundering out these words vnto me. Thou drunken knaue where haft thou bin folong? I shall reach thee how to benight mee an other time; and so shee begante play knaues trumps. Now althogh I trembled fearing the would fet her ten commandements in my face, ran within her, and taking her lustily by the midle, I carried her valiantly to the bed, and flinging her vpon it, flung my felfe vpon her, and there I delighted her fo with the sport I made, that ever after the wold call me fweet husband, and fo banifht brawling for euer : and to fee the good will of the wench, the bought with her portion a yard of land, and by that I am now become one of the richest me in our parish. Well masters whats a clocke, it is now breakfast time, you shall see what meat I have here for my breakfast.

his vittailes.

Hum. Was ever land to fruit lefte as this land?
Was ever grove to graceleffe as this grove?
Was ever toyle to barrein as this toyle?
Oh no: the land where hungry Fames dwelt.
May no wife aqualize this curfed land,
No even the climat of the torrid zone
Brings forth more fruit then this accurfed grove.

H 2

The lamentable Tragedie of Locrine

Nere came (weet Geres, nere came Venus here,

Triptolemus the god of husbandmen,

Nere fowd his feed in this foule wildernesse.

The hunger-bitten dogs of Acheron,

Chast from the ninefold Purislegiton,

Haue set their footesteps in this damned ground.

The yron harted Furies arm'd with snakes,

Scattered huge Hidras ouer all the plaines, which have cosum'd the grasse, the herbes, the trees which have drunke vp the slowing water springs.

Strumbs hearing his voice shall flart vp and putmeatin his pocket, seeking to hide himselfe.

Hum. Thou great commander of the starry skie,
That guid st the life of everie mortall wight
From the inclosures of the sleeting clouds,
Raine downe some foode, or else I faint and die.
Powre downe some drinke, or else I faint and die.
O supiter hast thou sent Mercury
In clownish shape to minister some foode?
Some meate, some meate, some meate.
Strum. O alasse sir, ye are deceived, I am not Mercury, I am Strumbo.

Hum. Give me for meat vitain, give me for meat, Or gainst this rock, lied ash thy curied braines, And rent thy bowels with my bloodie hands. Give me some meat villaine, give me some meat.

Strum. By the faith of my bodie good fellow, I had rather give an whole oxethen that thou shuldst ferue me in that fort. Dash out my braines? O horrible,

ble, terrible. I thinke I have a quarry of stones in my pocket.

Let him make as though hee would give him some, and as he putteth out his hand, enter the ghoast of Albanaët, and strike him on the hand, and so Strumbe runnes out, Humber sollowing him.

Exit.

Alba. ghost. Loe here the gist of sell ambition, Of vsurpation and of trecherie.

Loe here the harmes that wait vpon all those That do intrude themselves in others lands, Which are not vnder their dominion.

Exit.

The 4. Scene.

Enter Locrine alone.

To Locrines griefe, and faire Estribute woe,
And seven yeares more he hopeth yet to live,
Oh supreme love, annihilate this thought.
Should he enjoy the aires fruition?
Should he enjoy the benefit of life?
Should he contemplate the radiant sonne,
That makes my life equal to dreadfull death?
Venus convey this monster fro the earth,
That disobeieth thus thy sacred helts.
Cupid convey this monster to darke hell,
That disanulls thy mothers sugged lawes.
Mars with thy target all beset with stames,

With

The lamentable Tragedie of Locrine With murthering blade bereaue him of his life, That hindreth Locrine in his sweetest ioyes. And yet for all his diligent aspect, His wrathfull eies piercing like Linces eies, VVell have I overmatcht his subtiltie. Nigh Descolition by the pleasant Lee, where brackish Thamis slides with filuer freames, Making a breach into the grassie downes, A curious arch of costly marble fraught, Hath Locrine framed vademeath the ground, The walls whereof, garnish with diamonds, VVith ophirs, rubies, gliftering emeralds, And interlast with fun-bright carbuncles, Lighten the roome with artificiall day, And from the Lee with water-flowing pipes The moisture is deriu'd into this arch VVhere I have placed faire Estrild secretly, Thither eftsoones accompanied with my page, I couerdy visit my harts defire, VVithout suspition of the meaneft eie, For lone aboundeth still with pollicie: And thither still meanes Locrine to repaire, Till Atropos cut off mine vncles life.

Exit.

The 5. Scene.
Enter Humber alone, saying;

Ham. O vita miserolonga, falici brenis,

Ehen malorem fames extremum malum.

Long haue I lived in this desart cave,

VVith cating hawes and miserable rootes,

Dcueu-

the eldeft sonne to King Brutus. Denouring leanes and beaftly excrements. Caues were my beds, and stones my pillowbeares, · Feare was my fleep, and horror was my dreame. For still methought are very boisterous blast Now Lecrine comes, now Humber thou must die: So that for feare and hunger, Humbers minde Can neuer rest, but alwaies trembling stands. O what Danubius now may quench mythirft? VVhat Euphrates, what lightfoot Euripus, May now allaie the furie of that hear, VV hich raging in my entralls cates me vp? You gaftly divels of the ninefold Stickes, You damned ghoafts of joyleffe Acheron, You mournfull foules, vext in Abiffus vaults, You coleblack divels of Avernas pond, Come with your fleshhooks, tent my famisht arms, These armes that have suffaind their maisters life, Come wish your raisours, rippe my bowels vp, VVith your tharp fireforks crack my sterued bones, Vie meas you will, so Humber may not live. Accurfed gods that rule the flarry poles, Accurled love king of the curled gods, Cast downe your lightning on poore Humbers head, That I may leave this deathlike life of mine, What heare you not, and shall not Humber die? Nay I will die though all the gods fay nay. And gentle Abytake my troubled corps, Take it and keep it from all mortall eies, That none may fay when I have loft my breath, The very flouds conspired gainst Humbers death. Fling himselfe into theriver. Enter

Enter the ghoalt of Albanath.

Encedem segnitur, cades in cade quiesco.

Humber is dead, ioy heavens, leap earth, dance trees,
Now maist thou reach thyapples Tantalus,
And with them feed thy hunger-bitten limmes.
Now Sissphus leave tumbling of thy rock,
And rest thy restiesse bones vponthesame.

Vnbind Ixion cruell Rhadamanth,
And laie proud Humber on the whirling wheele.

Backe will I post to hell mouth Tenarus,
And passe Gocitus, to the Elysian fields,
And tell my father Brutus of these newes.

Exit

The S. Act. Scene 1.

Enter Ase as before. Infon leading Creons daughter.

Medea following, hath a garland in her hand, and putting it on Creons daughters head, setteth it on fire, and then killing Infon and her, departeth.

Ate. Nontam Tincriis excessuat Aetna canernis.

Lesse survino quam cor mulieris amore.

Medea seeing Inson leave her love,

And choose the daughter of the Thebaneking.

Went to her divellish charmes to worke reverage,

And raising vp the triple Hecate.

With all the rout of the condemned siends,

Framed a garland by her magick skill,

With which she wrought Inson and Creens ill.

So Guendoline seeing her selfe missed,

And Humbers paramour possesse her place,

Flies

The chances of this difmall massacre,
That which insueth shortly will vnfold.

(Ext.

The 2 Scene

Enter Locrine, Camber, Affarachus, Thrasimachus.

金色 经股份 无人

Affa. But tell me cousin, died by brother so? Now who is left to helpleffe Albion, That as a piller might vphold our state, That might strike terror to our daring foes? Now who is left to hapleffe Brittanie, That might defend her from the barbarous hands Of those that still defire her ruinous fall, And seeke to worke her downfall and decaie? Cam. I vncledeath is our common enemie, And none but death can match our matchles power Witnessethefall of Albioness crewe, Witnessethefall of Humber and his Humnes. And this fouledeath hath now increast our woe, By taking Corineus from this life, And in his roome leaving vs worlds of care, Thra. But none may more bewaile his mournful Then I that amthe iffue of his loines, Now foule befall that curfed Humbers throat, That was the causer of his lingring wound.

Loc.

The lamentable Tragedie of Locrine

Lo. Teares cannot raise him from the dead again,
But wher's my Ladie mistresse Guendoline?

Thra. In Cornwall Locrine is my sister now,
Providing for my fathers sunerall.

Lo. And let her ther provide her mourning weeds
And mourne for ever her owne widdow-hood.
Ner shall she come within our pallace gate,
To countercheck brave Locrine in his love.
Go boy to Deucolitum, downethe Lee,
Vnto the arch where lovely Estrild lies,
Bring her and Sabren strait vnto the court,
She shall be queene in Gnendolinas roome.
Let others waile for Corineus death,
I meane not so to macerate my minde,
For him that bard me from my hearts desire.

Is Corineus death so some for so ke his Guendoline?

Is Corineus death so some forgot?

If there be gods in heaven, as surethere be,

If there be fiends in hell, as needs there must,

They will revenge this thy notorious wrong,

And powretheir plagues vponthy cursed head.

Loc. What prat'st thou pesant to thy soueraignes.

Or art thou strooken in some extasse?

Doest thou not tremble at our royall lookes?

Dost thou not quake when mighty Locrine frowns?

Thou beardlesse boy, wert not that Locrine scornes.

To vexe his mind with such a hartlesse childe,

With the sharpe point of this my battale-axe,

I would send thy soule to Purislegiton.

Thra. Though I be yoong and of a tender age, Yet will I cope with Lecrine when he dares.

My

the eldest sonne to King Brutus.

My noble father with his conquering sword,

Slew the two giants kings of Aquitaine.

Thrasimachus is not so degenerate

That he should feare and tremble at the lookes

Or taunting words of a venerian squire.

Lec. Menacest thou thy roiall soueraigne,
Vnciuill, not beseeming such as you.
Iniurious traitor (for he is no lesse
That at desiance standeth with his king) (words,
Leaue these thy tauntes, seaue these thy bragging
Vnlesse thou meaneto seaue thy wretched life.

Thra. If princes stainetheir glorious dignitie With ougly spots of monstrous infamie, They leefetheir former estimation, And throw themselves into a hell of hate.

Loc. Wilt thou abuse my gentle patience,
As though thou didst our high displeasure scorne?
Proud boy, schou maist know thy prince is mou'd,
Yeagreatly mou'd at this thy swelling pride,
We banish thee for ever from our court.

Thra. Then solell Locrine, looke unto thy selfe, Thrasimachus will vengethis iniurie. (Exit.

Lo. Farwel proud boy, and learn to viethy toong.

Assa. A las my Lord, you shuld have cald to mind.

The latest words that Brutus spake to you,

How he desirde you by the obedience.

That children ought to be are vnto their sire,

To love and favour Ladie Guendoline,

Consider this, that if the injurie.

Do moove her mind, as certainly it will,

Warre and dissention sollowes speedely.

What

The lamentable Tragedie of Locrine

What though her power be not so great as yours,

Haue you not seen a mightie elephant

Slaine by the biting of a tilly mouse?

Euen so the chance of warreinconstant is.

Loc. Peace vncle peace, and cease to talke hereof,
For he that seekes by whispering this or that,
To trouble Locrine in his sweetest life,
Let him per wade himselfe to die the death.

- Enter the Page, with Estrild and Sabren.

Estr. Of ay me Page, tell me where is the king, Wherefore doth he send for me to the court, Is it to die, is it to end my life,

Say me sweete boy, tell me and do not faine?

Page. No trust me madame, if you will credit the little honestie that is yet lest me, there is no such danger as you feare, but prepare your selfe, yonders the king.

Estr. Then Estrild lift thy dazled spirits vp,
And blesse that blessed time, that day, that houre,
That warlike Locrine first did fauour thee.
Peace to the king of Brittuny my lone,
Peace to all those that love and fauour him.

Doth Estrild fall with such submission
Before her servant king of Albion?
Arise faire Ladie, leave this lowly cheare,
Lift vpthose lookes that cherish Locrines heart,
That I may freely view that roscall face,
Which so intangled hath my lovelick brest,
Now to the court where we will court it out,
And passet he night and day in Venus sports.

Frollick

the eldest sonne to King Brutus.
Frollick braue peeres, be joyfull with your king.'

Exeunt.

The 3. Scene. Enter Guendoline, Thrasimachus, Madan, and the souldiers. (blasts,

Guen. You gentle winds that with your modest Paffethrough the circuit of the heavenly vault, Enter the clouds vnto the throne of love, And beare my praiers to his all hearing eares, For Locrine hath forfaken Guendoline, And learne to loue proud Humbers concubine. You happie sprites that in the concaue skie With pleasant ioy, enioy your sweetest loue, Shead foorth those teares with me, which then you Whe first you wood your ladies to your wils, (shed Those teares are fittest for my wofull case, Since Locrine shunnes my nothing pleasant face. Blush heavens, blush sunne, and hide thy shining Shadow thy radiat locks in gloomy clouds, (beams, Deniethy cheerfull light vnto the world, VVhere nothing raigns but falshood and deceit. VVhat faid I, falshood? I that filthie crime, For Locrine hath forfaken Guendoline. Behold the heavens do waile for Guendoline. The thining funne doth bluth for Guendoline. The liquid aire doth weep for Guendoline. The verie ground doth grone for Guendoline. I they are milder then the Brittaine king, Forhereiedethlucklesse Guendoline. Thra. Sister, complaints are bootlesse in this cause,

This open wrong must have an open plague:
This plague must be repaid with grieuous warre,
This

The lamentable Tragedie of Locrine This warre must finish with Locrinus death. His death will soone extinguish our complaints. Guen. Ono, his death wil more augment my woes, He was my hulband braue Thrasimachus, More deare to me then the apple of mine eie, Nor can I finde in heart to worke his scathe. Thra. Madame if not your proper injuries, Nor my exile, can moue you to reuenge, Thinke on our father Corineus words, His words to vs stands alwaies for a lawe, Should Locrine line that cau'd my fathers death? Should Logrine line that now dinorceth you? The heavens, the earth, the aire, the fire reclaimes, And then why should all wedenie the same? Guen. Then henceforth farwel womanish com-All childish pitie henceforth then farwel: (plaints, But curled Locrene looke vnto thy felfe, For Nemelis the mistresse of renenge, Sits arm'd at all points on our dismall blades, And curfed Estrild that inflamed his heart, Shall if I live, die a reproachfull death. Madan. Mother, though nature makes me to la-My luckleffe fathers froward lecherie, Yet for he wrongs my Ladie mother thus, I if I could, my selfe would worke his death. Thra. See madame see, the desire of revenge Is in the children of a tender age. Forward braue souldiers into Mertia, Where we shall braue the coward to his face.

Excunt.

The 4. Scene.

Enter Locrine, Estrild, Habren, Assarachus, and the souldiers.

Loc. Tell me Assarachus, are the Cornish chuffes In such great number come to Mertia, And haue they pitched there their pettie hoste, So close vnto our royall mansion.

Assa. They are my Lord, and meane incontinent

To bid defiance to your maiestie.

Loc. It makes me laugh, to thinke that Guendoline Should haue the hart to come in armes gainst me.

Estr. Alas my Lord, the horse wil runne amaine When as the spurre doth gall him to the bone, Icalousie Locrine hath a wicked sting.

Lac. Saist thou so Estroid, beauties paragon?
Well we will trie her chollor to the proofe,
And make her know Locrine can brooke no braues.
March on Assarachus, thou must lead the way,
And bring vs to their proud pauillion. (Exeunt.

The 5. Scene.

Enterthe ghost of Corineus, with thunder & lighteGhost. Behold the circuit of the azure sky, (ning.
Throwes forth sad throbs, and gricuous suspirs,
Prejudicating Locrines ouerthrow,
The fire casteth forth sharpedartes of slames,
The great soundation of the triple world,
Trembleth and quaketh with a mightie noise,
Presaging bloodie massacres at hand.
The wandring birds that slutter in the darke,
When hellish night in cloudie charriot seared,
Casteth

The lamentable Tragedie of Locrine Casteth her mists on shadie Tellus face, VVith fable mantels couering all the earth, Now flies abroad amid the cheerfull day, Foretelling some vnwonted miserie. The fnarling curres of darkened Tartarus, Sent from Auernus ponds by Radamanth, VVith howling ditties pefter enerie wood, The watrie ladies and the lightfoote fawnes, And all the rabble of the wooddie Nymphs, All trembling hide themselves in shadie groves, And throwd themselves in hideous hollow pitts. The boysterous Boreas thundreth forth reuenge. The stonierocks crie out on sharpereuenge. The thornie bush pronounceth dire reuenge. Sound the alarme.

Now Corineus staie and secreuenge,
And seedethy soule with Locrines overthrow.
Behold they come, the trumpets call them soorth.
The roaring drummes summonthe souldiers.
Loe where their army glistereth on the plaines,
Throw forth thy lightning mightie Iupiter,
And powre thy plagues on cursed Locrines head.

Stand a side.

Enter Locrine, Estrild, Assaracus, Habren and their soldiers at one doore, Thrasimachus, Guendolin, Madan and their sollowers at an other.

Loc. VV hat is the tigre started from his caue? Is Guendoline come from Cornubia,
That thus she braueth Locrine to the teeth?
And hast thou found thine armour prettie boy,
Accompanied with these thy stragling mates?

Beleeue

the eldest Jonne to King Brutus. Beleeue me but this enterprise was bold, And well deserveth commendation. Guen. I Locrine, traiterous Locrine We are come, With full pretence to seeke thine ouerthrow, Whathaue I don that thou shouldst scorn methus? What have I faid that thou shouldst me reject? Haue I bene disobedient to thy words? Haue I bewrayd thy Arcane secrecie? Haue I dishonoured thy marriage bed With filthie crimes, or with lascinious lufts? Nay it is thou that haft dishonoured it, Thy filthie mindeorecome with filthie lufts, Yeeldeth vnto affections filthie darts. Vnkind, thou wrongst thy first and truest feer, Vnkind, thou wrongft thy best and dearest friend. Vakind shou fcornft all [kilfull Brutus lawes, Forgetting father, vacle, and thy felfe, Eftr. Beleeue me Locrine but the girle is wife, And well would feeme to make a vaftall Nunne, How finely frames the her oration. Thra. Locrin we came not here to fight with words Wordsthat can neuer winne the victorie, But for you are so merie in your frumpes, Vnsheath your swords, and trie it out by force, That we may see who hath the better hand. Loc. Thinkstthou to dare mebold Thrasimachus? Thinkst thou to feare me with thy taunting braues, Ordoweseeme too weake to cope with thee? Soone shall I show theemy fine cutting blade, And with my fword the meffenger of death, Scal thee an acquitace for thy bold attempts. Exent.

Sound

The lamentable Tragedie of Locrine Sound the alarme. Enter Locrine, Affaracus, and louldier at one doore, Guendoline, Thrimachus, at another, Lucrine and his followers driven back. Then let Locrine & Eftri denter again in a maze. Loc. O faire Estrelda, we have lost the field. The asimachus bath wonne the victorie, And weare left to be a laughing flocke, Scoft at by the ethat are our enemies, Ten thousand souldiers armd with sword & shield, Preuaile against an hundreth thousand men, Thrasimaches incenst with filming ire, Rageth amongst the faintheart souldiers Like to grim Mars, when covered with his targe He fought with Diomedes in the field, Close by the bankes of filuer Simais, Sound the alarme. Olouely Estrildnow the chase begins, Ner shall we see the stately Traynouant Mounted on the courfers garnisht all with pearles, Ner shall we view the faire Concordia, Vileffeas captines we bethirher brought. Shall Locrine then betaken prisoner, By such a youngling as Thrasimachus? Shall Guendolina captillate my loue? Ner shall mine eies behold that dismall houre, Nerwill I view that ruthfull spectacle, For with my fword this sharpe curtleaxe, He cut infunder my accurfed heart. But O you indges of the ninefold Stix, Which with incessant torments racketheghoasts Within the bottomleffe Abiffus pits, You.

the eldest forme to King Brutus. You gods commanders of she heavenly spheres, Whole will and lawes irrevocable flands. Forgine, forgine, this foule accurled tinne, Forget Ogodsthis foule condemned fault: And now my (word that in somany fights (kille his Haft fau d the life of Brutus and his fonne, - (fword. End now his life that wisheth still for death. Worke now his death that wisherh still for death. Worke now his death that hateth still his life. Farwell faire Effrild, beauties paragon, Fram'd in the front of forlorne mileries, Ner shall mine eies behold thy sunshine eies, But when we meet in the Elysian fields, Thither I gobefore with haftenened pace. Farwell vaine world, and thy inticing fnares, Forwell foule finne, and thy inticing pleafures. And welcome death the end of mortall fmart, Welcome to Locrines ouerburthened hart.

Thrust himselfe through with his sword.

Estr. Break hart with sobsand greeuous suspirs,

Streame forth you teares from forth my watry eies,

Helpe me to mourne for warlike Locrines death,

Powredowne your teares you watry regions,

For mightie Locrine is bereft of life.

Ofickle fortune, O vustable world,

What else are all things that this globe containes,

But a consused chaos of mishaps?

Vherein as in a glasse we plainly see,

That all our life is but as a Tragedie.

Since mightie kings are subject to mishap,

I mightie kings are subject to mishap,

Since martiall Locrine is bereft of life,

Shall

The lamentable Tragedie of Locrine
Shall Effeild live then after Locrines death?
Shall love of life barre her from Locrines (word?
Ono, this (word that hath bereft his life,
Shall now deprive me of my fleeting foule:
Strengthen these hands O mightie Iupiter,
That I may end my wofull miserie.
Locrine I come, Locrine I follow thee.

Killher selfe.

Sound the alarme. Enter Sabren. Sab. What dolefull fight, what ruthful spectacle Hath forume offred to my haptelle hart? My father flaine with fuch a fatall fword, My mother murthred by a mortall wound? What Thraciandog, what barbarous Mirmidon, Would not relent at such a ruthfull case? What fierce Achilles, what hard stonie flint, Would not bemone this mournfull Tragedie? Locrine the map of magnanimitie, Lies flaughtered in this foule accurled caue, Estrild the perfect patterne of renowne, Natures fole wonder, in whose bewteous brests All heavenly grace and vertue was inshrinde, Both massacred are dead within this caue, And with them dies faire Pallas and sweet love. Here lies a fivord, and Sabren hath a heart, This bleffed fword shall cut my curfed heart, And bring my foule vnto my parents ghoalts, That they that line and view our Tragedie, May mourne our case with mournfull plaudities. Let her offer to kill her felfe.

Ay me, my virgins hands are too too weake,

To

To penetrate the bullwarke of my breft,
My fingers vide to tune the amorous lute,
Are not of force to hold this steely glaine,
So I ambiesto waile my parents death,
Not able for to worke my proper death.
Ah Locrine honord for thy noblenesse.
Ah Estrild, samous for thy constancie.
Il may they fare that wrought your mortall ends.

Emer Guendoline, Thrasimachus, Madan, and the souldiers.

Guen. Search fouldiers fearch, find Locrin and his Find the proud strumpet Humbers concubine, (loue, That I may change those her so pleasing tookes, To pale and ignominious aspect.
Find me the issue of their curied loue, Find me yoong Sabren, Locrines only ioy, That I may glut my mind with lukewarme blood, Swifely distilling from the bastards brest, My fathers ghoast still haunts me for reuenge, Crying, reuenge my ouerhastened death, My brothers exile, and mine ownediworce, Banish remorse cleane from my brazen heart, All mercie from mine adamintive brests.

Thrs. Nor doth thy husband louely Guendoline,
Tharwonted was to guide our stailesse steps,
Enioy this light; see where he murdred lies:
By lucklesse lot and froward frowning sate,
And by him lies his louely paramour
Faire Estrild goared with a dismall sword,
And as it seemes, both murdred by themselves,
Clasping each other in their seebled armes,

K

With

The lamentable Tragedie of Lecrine With louing zeale, as if for companie Their vncontented corpes were yet content To passe foule Stix in Charans ferry-boat. Guen. And hath proud Estrild then prevented me, Hath the escaped Guendolinas wrath, Violently by cutting off her life? VVould God the had the montrous Hidres lives. That every houre the might have diedadeath VVorse then the swing of old Ixions wheele, And every houre reminetodie againe, As Titins bound to houlles Cancalon, Doth feed the substance of his owne mishap, And every day for want of foodedoth die, And every night doth live againstodie. But staie, meethinks I heare some fainting voice, Mournfully weeping for their lucklesse death. Sa. You mountain nimphs which in these desarts Cease off your hastie chase of sauadgebeasts, (raign, Prepareto see a heart opprest with care, Addresse your eares to heare a mournfull stile, No humane frength, no work can work my weale, Care in my hart so tyrantlike doth deale. You Driades and lightfoore Satiri, You gracious Faries which at evening tide, Your closers seame with heavenly beautie storde, And on your shoulders spread your golden locks, You fau adge beares in causes and darkened dennes, Come waile with me, the martiall Locrines death. Come mourn with me, for beauteous Estrilds deth. Ah louing parents littledo you know, what forrow Sabren fuffers for your thrall. Guen.

the eldeft forme to King Brutus. Guen. But may this be, and is it possible, Liues Sabren yet to expiat my wrath? Fortune Ithanke thee for this curtelie. And let me neuer see one prosperous houre, If Sabrendie not a reproachfull death. Sab. Hard harred death, that when the wretched Art furthest off, and fildom heerst at all. But in the midft of fortunes good successe, Vincalled comes, and theeres our life in twaine: VV hen wil that houre, that bleffed houre draw nie, VVhen poore diffressed Sabren may be gone. Sweet Atropos cut off my fatall thred, VV hat art thou death, (hall not poore Sabren die? Guendoline taking her by the chin shall say thus. Guen. Yes damiell yes, Sabren Shall furely die, Though all the world should seeke to faue her life, And not a common death shall Sabren die, But after strange and greeuous punishments Shortly inflicted vpoh thy baftards head, Thou shaft be cast into the cursed streames, And feede the fishes with thy tender flesh. 3.4. And thinft thou then thou cruell homicid, That thefe thy deeds shall be unpunished? Notraitorno, the gods will vengethele wrongs, The fiends of hell will marke these injuries. Neuer shall these blood-sucking mastie curres, Bring wretched Sabrentoher lateft home. For I my selfe inspire of thee and thine, Meaneto abridge my former deftenies, And that which Leerbes ford could not perform, This pleasant streame shall prefent bring to paile. Shedrowneth her felfe. Guen ..

Thelamentable Tragedie of Lotrine Guen. One mischiefe followes anothers necke. VVho would have thought fo young a mayd as the VVith fuch acourage wold have fought herdeath. And for because this River was the place VV here little Sabren resolutely died. Sabren for ever shall this same be call'd. And as for Lacrine our deceased spoule, Because he was the sonne of mightie Brute. To whom we owe our country, lines and goods, V He shall be buried in a stately tombe, him or VV Close by his aged father Brutus bones, and IVV With such great pompand great folemnitic, As well beformes fo braue a prince as be me had VV Let Estrild lie without the shallow varies and VVithout the honour due vnto the deady Because she was the author of this warre. Retire braue followers vnto Treynement VVherewe will celebrate the leexequies 2 And place young Lacrime in his fathers tombe, not

Ate. Lo here the end of law leftetrecherie,

Of viurpation and ambitious pride,

And they that for their private amours dare

Turmoile our land, and feetheir broiles abroach,

Let them be warned by these premisses,

And as a woman was the onely cause

That civil discord was then stirred up,

So let us pray for that renowned mayd,

That eight and thirtic yeares the septentwayd,

In quiet peace and sweet felicitie,

And enery wight that seekes her grades smart, wold that this sword wer pieteeth in his hart. (Exit.

FINIS.

